The Pro-Tour of Nature Photography is sponsored by Images for Conservation Fund (ICF), a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization whose mission is conservation of wildlife using the power of nature photography. We created ICF and the Pro-Tour to establish the private lands nature photo tourism industry as a significant new stream of revenue for private landowners and rural communities. This new industry will also become a major new income source to trip, tour and workshop operators, guides and photography ranch design contractors. As nature photographers pay landowners for use of their land, landowners are encouraged to protect and enhance the native eco-systems that generate the income.

This event promotes the international border region of Laredo, Texas as a major destination for nature photographers. Webb County and the bordering 7 counties sit at the edge of the Chihuahuan Desert and feature over 100 miles of Rio Grande river frontage. Black Bear are moving in from Mexico, Ocelot and Jaguarundi have been sighted on numerous occasions and the area is home to a large population of Mountain Lion. This area is 98% privately owned and is noted for its large ranches. This eight county region is one the most biodiverse in North America.

The Pro-Tour of Nature Photography offers sponsorship opportunities for corporations, foundations and individuals. For more information or answers to questions, visit www.imagesforconservation.org, call Gail Hoffman at (361) 937-4215 or John F. Martin at (956) 381-1264.
